Linda McMahon

Cashed in at Her Workers' Expense

Linda McMahon is a millionaire who is trying to buy her way into the U.S. Senate. Even worse, she opposes commonsense policies that protect workers and their families. Check the facts for yourself:

Putting Workers in Danger

Everyone knows that some professional wrestlers get paid well – but most of Linda McMahon's employees are struggling to get by on a tiny salary, no health insurance, and no retirement benefits. Many of her former employees have died at a young age due to job-related health issues.

Opposing Workers' Rights

Linda McMahon opposes the Employee Free Choice Act, which guarantees workers the freedom to form unions and protects them from employer intimidation.

Trying To Buy A U.S. Senate Seat

Linda McMahon doesn't respect workers' rights and she opposes policies that put middle-class families first. She thinks she can use her millions to buy the right to represent us in Washington.
